Business development

Material events

1st quarter 2019 The US economy led the rest of the world, as it benefited further from the fiscal stimulus provided by tax reductions. Meanwhile, the robust state of the US economy resulted in rising interest rates. Nonetheless, the tense geopolitical situation worried investors. Of particular concern were the global trade dispute, the Italian budget debate and Brexit. The Swiss economy still grew significantly in the first quarter. Pressure on mortgage interest rates also mounted, partly because the Swiss National Bank's hands are still tied by the European Central Bank's strategic thrust. Competition was also noticeably tougher.

2nd quarter 2019 As the progress targeted in the China-US trade dispute was not achieved, the US imposed new tariffs on Chinese goods. China reacted with corresponding countermeasures. As a result, the global economy deteriorated further, and uncertainty on the financial markets increased. This prompted the US and European central banks to signal a return to monetary easing. This change of monetary regime went down well with the markets. The global growth slowdown did not leave much of a mark on the Swiss economy in the second quarter. In fact, Swiss foreign trade picked up again, although leading economic indicators started to point to a looming downturn. Demand for mortgages was boosted by another decrease in interest rates.

Zürcher Kantonalbank once again posted a positive half-yearly result, albeit slightly down year-on-year. The consolidated half-yearly profit totalled CHF 418 million, which was 4.8 percent below the previous year's figure of CHF 439 million.

The main reasons can be summarised as follows: The result from interest operations came under pressure during the first half of 2019 from the prevailing conditions. At CHF 606 million, it was around 3 percent down year-on-year.

Geopolitical uncertainties dented the trading and investment businesses. Hence, the result from trading activities was correspondingly lower at CHF 138 million than in the previous year (CHF 151 million). The same applied to the result from commission business. Although some individual components fared well, the drop in income in the securities and investment business dragged the result from commission business down by 2.5 percent to CHF 387 million.

However, at CHF 683 million, operating expense came in below the prior-year level of CHF 706 million, thanks to strict cost controls. The half-year result primarily reflects the market environment, which also affects key figures. Return on equity was 7.2 percent (1st half 2018: 8.0 percent).

Excellent capital and liquidity basis

Equity increased again due to the profit retained at yearend. The risk-based equity ratio (going-concern) on 30 June 2019 was high, at 19.3 percent, compared with 18.6 percent on 30 June in the previous year. The ratio is higher than the current capital adequacy requirements for a systemically important bank (13.5 percent of riskweighted assets) and testifies to Zürcher Kantonalbank's high capitalisation.

The leverage ratio (going-concern), at 6.6 percent, is also significantly higher than the 4.5 percent required for systemically important banks. Likewise, the additional loss-absorbing requirements (gone-concern) are met by Zürcher Kantonalbank both on a risk-based and an unweighted basis. The liquidity coverage ratio (LCR), which is calculated as a simple average of the closing values on the business days during the quarter under review, was 125 percent for the group, significantly higher than the required 100 percent.

Challenging interest operations

The heightening competition and persistent negative interest rate environment are a major challenge. Zürcher Kantonalbank obtained a net result from interest operations of CHF 606 million, which is around 3 percent down year-on-year.

Zürcher Kantonalbank paid the Swiss National Bank negative interest amounting to around CHF 82 million (12.5 percent more than in the first half of 2018).

Zürcher Kantonalbank assesses credit default risks and other recognisable risks on an ongoing basis. Where necessary, it makes appropriate value adjustments or provisions.

In interest operations, this led to a net unwinding of value adjustments for default risks and losses amounting to CHF 9 million (1st half 2018: net release of CHF 3 million).

Overall lower depreciation and amortisation and changes to provisions

Value adjustments on participations and depreciation and amortisation of tangible fixed assets and intangible assets amounted to CHF 56 million, CHF 9 million lower than in the first half of 2018. The main reasons were the lower ordinary amortisation of goodwill from the Swisscanto

Group and lower depreciation on bank buildings as some properties were sold in the previous year.

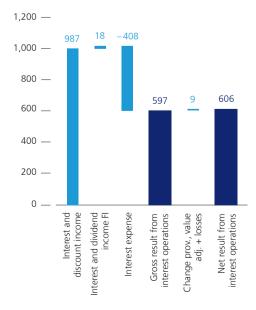

Changes to provisions and other value adjustments and losses were CHF 7 million for the first half of 2019 and thus slightly up year-on-year (prior-year period: CHF 5 million).

Commission business and services

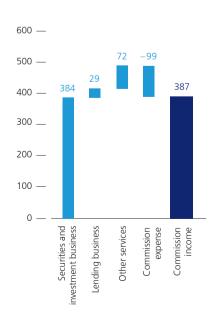

In the first half of 2019, the bank posted a result from commission business and services of CHF 387 million. This was 2.5 percent lower than in the previous year. Securities trading and investment activities continued to account for the largest share (79 percent) of the result from commission business and services. At CHF 384 million, this item was 6.6 percent down year-on-year, reflecting the uncertainties in the financial markets, among other things.

By contrast, the other components performed well. Commission income from lending activities totalled CHF 29 million, up 19.5 percent. Commission income from other services business was CHF 72 million, which represents growth of 3.1 percent. At the same time, commission expense, at around CHF 100 million, was down slightly year-on-year (–9.6 percent).

Robust trading activities

Zürcher Kantonalbank continues to focus its trading activities primarily on client transactions. At CHF 138 million, the result from trading activities was satisfactory, but below the prior-year level of CHF 151 million.

The result from trading in bonds, interest rates and credit derivatives, which accounted for a good 35 percent of the result from trading, was substantially higher than the previous year at CHF 49 million (1st half 2018: CHF 36 million). The result from other trading activities was stable year-on-year, at CHF 29 million. By contrast, the result from trading in foreign exchange, bank notes and precious metals (CHF 33 million) and result from trading in equities and structured products (CHF 28 million) were both about 30 percent lower than in the first half of 2018.

Positive operating income

In the first half of 2019, operating income was CHF 1.2 billion, which was on a par with the prior-year period. This shows that the diversified, stable income structure was still of benefit.

With a share of 52 percent, interest operations continue to represent one of the bank's most important income streams, followed by the commission business and services with a 33 percent share. Trading activities, the bank's third most important source of income, accounted for 12 percent of operating income.

This result once again reflects the confidence and satisfaction of our clients.

Falling operating expenses

Operating expenses were CHF 683 million in the first half of 2018 and thus slightly down year-on-year. Thanks to constant cost controls, both personnel expenses (CHF 486 million) and general and administrative expenses (CHF 197 million) were kept below their prior-year level. IT expenses fell by annual comparison, not least due to lower third-party costs. The change in the other components can be seen in the chart "Development of operating expenses".

Compensation to the canton for its state guarantee amounted to CHF 10.9 million for the first six months of 2019, slightly down on the first half of 2018 (CHF 11.1 million) due to moderately lower risks. The cost/income ratio amounted to 59.1 percent compared with 58.4 percent for the prior-year period.

Development of operating expenses (in CHF million)

Robust operating result

The operating result fell slightly year-on-year, by 3.8 percent or CHF 17 million. It was still substantial though, at CHF 419 million. Hence, Zürcher Kantonalbank once again produced a robust operating result in a competitive market environment.

The individual components can be seen in the chart "Breakdown of operating result".

Lower extraordinary result

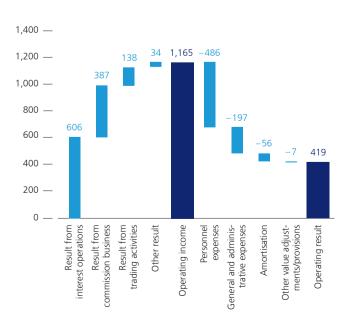

The extraordinary result of CHF 1 million was significantly below the prior-year level of CHF 7.6 million, due to property sales in the prior-year period.

Stable balance sheet structure

Total assets were CHF 170.6 billion as at 30 June 2019, up by an insignificant 0.7 percent compared with 31 December 2018.

There were no material changes to the balance sheet structure either. Mortgage loans in the amount of CHF 82 billion constituted the largest position on the asset side, with a share of 48.1 percent, followed by liquid assets, which accounted for a good quarter of total assets.

Breakdown of operating result (in CHF million)

On the liabilities side, the largest item was Amounts due in respect of customer deposits, which came in at CHF 87 billion, representing 50.7 percent of total liabilities. The second-largest item was Amounts due to banks of CHF 37 billion, which made up 21.9 percent of total liabilities.

High liquidity reserve

Liquid assets were at a high level as at the middle of the year, totalling around CHF 44 billion, up by a further 6.4 percent from the end of 2018.

Deposits with the Swiss National Bank continued to account for most of the liquid assets. These deposits are directly related to the liquidity requirements, which are particularly high for systemically important banks such as Zürcher Kantonalbank.

Comfortable refinancing situation

The total mortgage portfolio grew in the first six months of 2019 by 1.1 percent to CHF 82.1 billion. This growth reflects the current competitive situation. The largest share, at 92 percent, is still fixed mortgages (including ZKB starter mortgages and fixed advances with mortgage collateral). This shows our customers' expectations regarding interest rate trends. The principle of "quality before quantity" is a key criterion for the granting of mortgages, so we continue to base affordability calculations on an imputed mortgage interest rate of 5 percent. Customer deposits (savings and investments as well as other liabilities to clients) also grew. Holdings were 1.1 percent higher than at the end of 2018, amounting to around CHF 87 billion as at 30 June 2019.

Zürcher Kantonalbank's refinancing situation thus remains comfortable.

Positive trend in customers' assets

Customers' assets increased by CHF 20.3 billion to CHF 315.5 billion in the first half of 2019. The net new money inflow was CHF 2.5 billion. This means that the contribution made by positive investment performance was around CHF 17.7 billion.

AAA bank

The rating agencies Fitch, Moody's and Standard & Poor's continue to give Zürcher Kantonalbank first-class ratings: AAA, Aaa and AAA respectively.

Even on a stand-alone basis (i.e. not taking into account the state guarantee) Zürcher Kantonalbank is one of the safest universal banks worldwide, with a rating of aa- (S&P).

2019 remains challenging

The current interest rate environment and future interest trends will have a significant influence on us at Zürcher Kantonalbank and on the basis for our income. Nor can we escape from global influences, in particular, geopolitical events, such as developments in the trade dispute between the United States and China. The slowdown in global economic growth also presents a challenge, even if the foundation for domestic growth is still intact. Zürcher Kantonalbank thus expects the year to remain challenging. We are convinced that our diversified business model and client proximity will prove their worth in this situation too. Hence we are confident that we will continue to perform well in the second half of 2019 and be able to present pleasing annual results.

In the first half of 2019, no changes to the accounting and valuation principles were made. For further information about the applicable accounting and valuation principles, please see the annual report for 2018.

Factors affecting the 2019 half-yearly result

The geopolitical situation, especially the global trade dispute, the Italian budget debate and Brexit, worried investors. The US Federal Reserve and the European Central Bank reacted to the emerging economic gloom in the second quarter with further monetary easing. This was welcomed by the market: equity markets recovered from their temporary correction and bond yields fell again. Nonetheless, a general slowdown in global growth can be seen. A further challenge lay in the persistent negative interest rate environment and the heightening of competition, which impacted interest operations.

In the reporting period, no material value adjustments or impairment losses were recorded.
